Eric Taylor

Architect @ EY Design Studio PHL, USA

Boris is a multi-talented UX designer and UI developer who is always wonderful to work with. I had the opportunity to work with Boris on a green-field project where he was responsible for coming up with several design alternatives, presenting to and negotiating with the client to arrive at the best option, and he was the sole UX developer to create the front-end markup and styles. His dedication and hard work combined with his talents for design and development are a huge reason this project was delivered successfully and on-time.

Kai Prout

CEO @ Moonrake / DevOps & AEM @ UDig, USA

It's rare to come across someone as perfectionistic as Boris. I had the pleasure of working with him for two years at a startup where we collaborated on web development projects for some well-known clients. I've been particularly impressed with Boris' ability to understand client's desires and to mend them with current design practices. Boris would be an asset to any team, he'll bring the hard work and dedication to see things through when they're tough and loves to learn new things.

James Betterson

Marketing Director @ Graduate School USA, USA

Boris is a talented UI/UX Developer and a great person to work with. Not only is he an amazing designer, but he understands digital marketing strategies and pays attention to the small details of the user experience. While working on our project, Boris was very innovative and he was always looking for new solutions and fresh ideas that can improve our website. His knowledge and desire to exceed his client's expectations and goals was the main reason we chose to work with him. Boris is a passionate designer and always seems to have a great awareness of new creative strategies and technology, which makes him an asset to any company. I highly recommend Boris for any job or project he is applying to!
